In these busy times, with the challenges of economic downturn and rising living standards, blue-collar workers are mainly concerned with how to earn more and make ends meet to keep up with their living needs. They become the breadwinners of their families and dare to do anything, but they do not dare to tire.

With the foundation of having successfully targeted blue-collar workers, Boss Coffee had previously gained recognition and consumption via a function-driven approach.

This year, Boss Coffee expanded to a more emotional approach, which helped strengthen its position as the blue-collar workers' buddy.

The goal of the campaign was not only to increase brand visibility but also to evoke pride in blue-collar workers through engagement and honour them with physical and emotional support. This aimed to motivate them to keep contributing to the greater good of society, especially their families.

Campaign objectives:
1. Maximise brand awareness with blue-collar workers.

2. Gain stronger resonance and raise the sense of pride from northern blue-collar workers via engagement.

3. Drive trial and penetration towards Boss coffee.
